CONCEPT NOTE

Background

1.1. The Association of Southeast Asian Nations

The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) was established on August 8, 1967, in Bangkok, Thailand, with the signing of the ASEAN Declaration by Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore, and Thailand. Since then, ASEAN has expanded to include Brunei Darussalam (1984), Vietnam (1995), Lao PDR and Myanmar (1997), and Cambodia (1999), forming a ten-member regional bloc representing over 600 million people across 4.5 million km².

To commemorate the founding of this political and economic union, ASEAN Day is observed annually on August 8. This marks ASEAN's dedication to regional cooperation and integration among Southeast Asian nations. Each ASEAN Day, member states engage in activities that promote regional solidarity, highlight ASEAN's achievements, and reinforce its objectives. This celebration underscores the founding ideals of ASEAN, emphasizing the importance of regional collaboration in addressing shared challenges, fostering economic growth, and enhancing cultural understanding. By celebrating ASEAN Day, member countries honor ASEAN's foundational ideals and reaffirm their commitment to working together as one cohesive community, striving towards shared goals for the betterment of the region.

1.2. The KKU Centre for ASEAN Study

Khon Kaen University's Center for ASEAN Study serves as a hub for disseminating knowledge about the ASEAN Community to society and academic institutions, particularly in Northeast Thailand. Its mission includes conducting research on ASEAN-related topics, such as the economy, social and cultural planning, law, and security development. The Center also focuses on building networks for the exchange of experiences and fostering relationships with academic, governmental, and private organizations.

In line with the 2022 Khon Kaen University Implementation Plan, the Center plays a pivotal role in the internationalization strategy of the university. This involves collaboration and development with ASEAN countries in areas such as instruction, research, innovation, academic service, and business networking. The Center aims to promote education, research, and knowledge creation on various aspects of the ASEAN Community. Additionally, it seeks to enhance instruction, research, and academic services through partnerships with universities, faculties, and organizations both domestically and internationally.

1.3. Mekong Institute

Mekong Institute (MI), headquartered in Khon Kaen, Thailand and jointly owned and governed by China, Cambodia, Lao PDR, Myanmar, Thailand, and Viet Nam, is an intergovernmental organization committed to deepening regional cooperation and integration. MI focuses on capacity development, dialogue, and advocacy for sustainable socioeconomic development in the Greater Mekong Subregion (GMS).

In 2021, MI was honored with the ASEAN Prize for its outstanding contributions to promoting sub-regional development and advancing regional integration and cooperation. Administered by the ASEAN Secretariat, the ASEAN Prize is a prestigious annual award that recognizes exceptional achievements by individuals or organizations in ASEAN who have significantly contributed to community-building efforts. As an ASEAN Prize recipient, MI has demonstrated its expanding role from a GMS-focused entity to a reputable organization supporting broader regional frameworks such as ASEAN.

MI strives to be a center of excellence in human resource development, a leading think tank, and a convener for dialogue and collaboration. The Institute brings together stakeholders to advance development agendas in key areas such as agriculture, trade and investment, and sustainable energy and environment. Additionally, MI addresses critical cross-cutting themes including social inclusion and vulnerability, the digital economy and innovation, and labor mobility to ensure holistic and meaningful impacts across the region.

57th ASEAN Day at Khon Kaen University

Building on their mutual dedication to fostering international collaboration and supporting ASEAN's overarching goals, the KKU Centre for ASEAN Study and MI are collaborating to celebrate the 57th ASEAN Day at Khon Kaen University. The theme for this year's celebration, "From Vision to Reality: Remembering the Past, Shaping the Future," will reflect on ASEAN's original vision and celebrate the significant progress made over the past 57 years. This theme highlights how ASEAN's founding goals have been achieved through collective efforts and sets the stage for new aspirations and opportunities for the future of the region.

As a nation instrumental in the founding of ASEAN, Thailand's historic role is commemorated through this event. It also offers an opportunity to emphasize the country's continued relevance in upholding the ASEAN framework and showcase how the KKU Centre for ASEAN Study and MI are strategically positioned to promote ASEAN's principles and the motto of "One Vision, One Identity, One Community" across the KKU community, Northeastern Thailand, and the GMS.

ASEAN Day at KKU will be a vibrant blend of cultural celebration and academic experience, offering an array of activities designed to engage and inspire participants. The event will feature a series of insightful presentations by experts on ASEAN's past achievements and future aspirations, and networking activities that highlight the importance of international collaboration in building a sustainable ASEAN Economic Community. Attendees will have the chance to explore the region's cultural heritage through ASEAN country kiosks by participating foreign students associations.

2.1. Objectives

The ASEAN Day at KKU is a key initiative aimed at promoting the ASEAN way, framework, principles, and motto, contributing to the building of a regional community. The event specifically seeks to:

Commemorate the Founding of ASEAN: Celebrate the establishment of ASEAN on August 8, 1967, and honor the vision of the founding members who came together to create a framework for regional cooperation and unity.

Reflect on ASEAN's Progress, Achievements, and Collective Aspirations: Look back on ASEAN's journey from its inception to the present day, acknowledging the significant milestones, successes, and shared goals that have shaped the organization's development.

Foster Regional Solidarity and Cultural Understanding: Create opportunities for attendees to engage in cultural exchange and deepen their appreciation of the diverse traditions and values of ASEAN member states.

Inspire New Aspirations for the Region: Encourage new ideas and partnerships that advance ASEAN's principles and address future challenges, paving the way for continued regional growth and integration.

2.2. Potential Participants and Partners

The event targets 200 participants, including students and professors in Northeast region, general audiences, and members of the diplomatic network. Also, it is expected to be attended by:

KKU Foreign Students Associations

(i.e. Myanmar Students Association, Vietnamese Students Association, Indonesian Students Association, Lao Students Association, and Cambodian Students Association).
